It was summer season when my sister, my friends, and family were playing outside. We were also having a party. The party was about summer just summer. My sister, my two friends and I were playing in the water to cool off. We were in our swimming suits. My friend was throwing water on us from the water hose. I was trying to catch the water my friend was throwing at us with my mouth and hands. We were all very happy and screaming very loudly. My sister was doing cartwheels. My other friend was jumping up and down. We were at my house. We also made puddles of water while we played, and my friend jumped in them. We were also running around. My sister almost hit my friend with the water hose while doing her cartwheels. That was my summer party with my sister, friends, and family. (P.S. we ended up very tired!)
